INTRODUCTION

MoMoWo - Women's Creativity since the Modern Movement. Beyond a Gender Research

Emilia Garda, MoMoWo Project Leader and Assistant Professor at the Politecnico di Torino - DISEG, Turin, Italy

emilia.garda@polito.it

The ambition of MoMoWo European cultural project goes beyond the mere cliché that woman architects, civil engineers and designers represent an "unexploited creative potential" which the economy should make use of; or that women architects and designers should be entrusted with tasks especially related to women, so as to make certain built spaces or products even more successful, on the grounds that women have "a different view of things". Thus, MoMoWo tackles a real equal opportunities theme in both past and present times. As the title suggests, the starting point of the project is the Modern Movement, intended as a moment of great cultural ferment as well as a political and social turning point. The Modern Movement also represents the first historical landmark in the emancipation of women in the professions of architecture and engineering. The goal of the project is the creation of a bridge connecting past, present and future generations of women. The project intends to build up a heritage and a network of know-how and skills trans-nationwide going beyond the project itself.

THE MOMOWO PROJECT TEAM

Alain Bonnet is professor of history of contemporary art at the University of Grenoble (UPMF). He studies the history of the artistic institutions in the nineteenth century, the history of the arts education and the formation of the social image of the artists in the art of the nineteenth century. He has published books on the Ecole des beaux-arts of Paris and on the reform of 1863, on the representation of the community of artists, on the official encouragements for the artistic travels, not to mention papers in scientific reviews and catalogs of exhibition. He has also, as a curator, organized various exhibitions.

Helena Niemirowska Syrkus. Graphic Analysis of the 'House of Dr. N. in Warsaw'

Starlight Vattano, Department of Architecture, University of Palermo

In 1920s and 1930s, Warsaw was becoming one of the hubs of propagation of the new architecture, thanks to the geographical contiguity with the Weimar Republic, which allowed the formation of young minds aimed at a blending of architecture, art and music. In this cultural context, a young Helena Niemirowska Syrkus supported the idea that urban planning and architecture, conceived as art forms, had to target at the definition of a language able of expressing the great revolutionary step achieved in the social, economic and political life of that time, through new configurations. Helena Niemirowska shared the avant-garde thesis that the modern architect, to become an artist, had to be the basic element of social organization.

The paper proposes a graphic re-reading of the "House of Dr. N. in Warsaw" that Helena Niemirowska designed in 1932. The building, on two levels, shows in its form a strict geometric layout and a three parted-subdivision plan in which she defines the functional inside layout both at the ground floor and at the first one. Helena combines Suprematism and the Modern Movement, cultural influences that are revealed, as well as in her other projects, by surfaces, colours and volumes of seemingly static treatment.

Starlight Vattano (1987), graduated in Architecture in 2011, with a thesis entitled "Eileen Gray, an elusive subject. Graphic interpretations of the Centre de Vacances". Ph.D. in "Architecture", University of Palermo, Department of Architecture. She published and presented her articles at several international Conferences about Representation of unbuilt Architecture dealing with the study of women pioneers' projects of the Modern Movement. She's also interested in visual studies and relationship between graphical movements and geometric shapes. She undertook a period of visiting research at the Escuela de Arquitectura of Malaga and at the Faculty for the Built Environment of the University of Malta.
